Suzanne Donohue is no stranger to the Hard Bargain Players or to Children's Theatre. She was the Managing Artistic Director for the Hard Bargain Players until last fall when she stepped down to spend more time with her family, and some of you may remember her from teaching the HBP Kids Workshop in 2001, 2004 - 2009 or directing Oliver, HONK! or Annie at the Port Tobacco Players in January 2009, March 2005, and 2003 respectively. She received her BA in Dramatic Arts from West Virginia Wesleyan College where she studied under the highly respected Children's Theatre Playwright and Activist John Urquhart.

While in West Virginia, Suzanne helped establish and run the Buckhannon Children's Theatre, in addition to holding workshops for French Creek Elementary School, The Girl Scouts of America and the Upshur County Annual Children's Festival. Suzanne also taught college level workshops on audition techniques and she was the educational consultant for two college productions, The Comedy of Errors and The Code Breaker.

After college Suzanne taught beginning, intermediate and advanced courses in Acting, Improvisation, and Creative Drama at Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp in Michigan to children ages 5 - 17. Suzanne was also selected to teach and direct for the Little Theatre of Chattanooga's Youth Theatre Program. At the Little Theatre she taught beginning, intermediate and advanced courses focused on all aspects of theatre including acting, voice and diction, improvisation, play development, theatre history and technical awareness.

Write, Direct & STAR in a play this summer at Hard Bargain ...

Back by popular demand: In addition to monologue and scene work the Hard Bargain Kids will again be creating their own production.

Through the art of improvisation and various theatrical techniques they will become not only actors, but writers and directors.
